Bios for CNA Members:

Chips Stewart is Senior Fellow for Law Enforcement at the CNA Corporation, a former Director of the National Institute of Justice, and a retired Chief of Detectives from the Oakland, California Police Department. Mr. Stewart is a national expert on police operations who has led numerous studies and technical assistance efforts since leaving the federal government.

George Fachner is a Research Analyst with CNA and has been conducting police research for over five years, with a focus on policy, use of force, and misconduct. Some of his past experience includes analysis of hot pursuits and policies, a national survey of local police counterterrorism tactics and operations, ethnic profiling, and police-involved shootings. He holds an M.A. in Justice, Law, and Crime Policy from George Mason University, where he was a Dean’s Challenge Fellow and on staff at the National Institute of Justice on a graduate research assistantship.

David A. Klinger is Associate Professor of Criminology and Criminal Justice at the University of Missouri-St. Louis. He holds a BA in History from Seattle Pacific University, an MA in Justice from American University in Washington, D.C. and a Ph.D. in Sociology from the University of Washington in Seattle. Prior to pursuing his graduate degrees, Professor Klinger worked for three and one-half years as a patrol officer for the Los Angeles and Redmond (WA) Police Departments. He has held research positions at the Police Foundation in Washington, D.C.; the University of Washington, Seattle; the Washington State's Attorney's Office; and the Seattle Police Department.

Rodriguez King is an Associate Research Analyst at CNA. In her three years at CNA she has supported emergency preparedness exercise programs, conducted preparedness assessments, incident reconstructions, and law enforcement After Action Reports. She holds a Master’s degree in Forensic Psychology and a Bachelor’s degree in Criminal Justice.

Stephen Rickman is a former Criminal Justice Research Administrator, Public Safety Coordinator, and Executive Director for the U.S. Department of Justice Weed and Seed Program where he pioneered innovation in community policing. He brings an exceptional record of hands-on experience in the management and direction of government programs and projects in support of government operations impacting all levels from the federal government to local communities. He has over 16 years of experience in high-level positions in the public safety and community support areas.